about candida

Candida Stationery has been manufacturing envelopes for over 25 years, and is a privately owned New Zealand company. The business was founded by Klaus and Dagmar Girardet who moved to this region to explore business opportunities and raise their family. Klaus had an extensive background in the newspaper industry in Europe - so it was only natural that he should choose Candida as the name for the business. The word candida, while being one of the oldest typefaces used in newspapers around the world, is derived from the Latin word candid meaning white, bright and frank.

We are the leading envelope manufacturer in New Zealand, and have one of the largest manufacturing and print operations in Australasia.

Our philosophy of quality has seen regular investment in the most modern equipment available, and along with our world class technical expertise, has resulted in high performance and efficient production.

We take pride in having led the envelope market in New Zealand in a number of firsts and in continuing to innovate. We were the first company in New Zealand to offer metric envelopes and to standardise sizes.

We also led the way in introducing security opaquing and a self-seal option. More recently we were the first to bring the reverse window envelope and the echo reusable envelope to the New Zealand market.

With a reputation for quality and service excellence, our high service standards continue to drive our focus on customer needs and through this our innovations to meet market requirements.

We offer a full range of envelope manufacture and print

-Absolute Proof it's self has slipped into our work flow without Any disruptions to our normal routine's, it runs from it's own box Which needs no attention at all, no crashes etc, it is using the same Rip as we do our film ripping from, and has not hinderd any of our normal Process's at all.

We are finding the colours from the Media we are using in conjunction With HEX Inks and profiles supplied to be giving us great colour results, Which our clients are now beginning to benefit from, obviously machine profiling will give us an even better match to our machines capabilities, Also having the dot for dot capabilities, and not a simulated dot is of a High priority to our process.

Basically we are extremely happy with the results we are getting thus far, And from the continued support that we receive.
